Spain Rebels Are Predicting Early Fall of Madrid

Defenders in Desperate Position as Result of Fall of Maqueda, Insurgent Leaders Claim, But More Conservative Observers Point to Large Forces Loyalists Are Concentrating

URUGUAY CUTS SPAIN LINKS

Relations Severed as Result of Execution of Sisters of Consul at Madrid

Montevideo, Uruguay, Sept. 22.—Uruguay, angered by the reported execution of three sisters of a Uruguayan diplomat in Madrid, severed relations with Spain today.

The diplomatic break was announced following a cabinet meeting which considered dispatches describing the alleged killing of Dolores, Consuelo and Maria Aguilar, sisters of Montevideo's consul in the Spanish capital.

The reported killings, government sources held, demonstrated the Madrid administration could not control the actions of its militia.

Reported the foreign ministry stated the sisters were executed by government militiamen.

Their brother now is in Hendaye, France.

The reports to Montevideo indicated the sisters disappeared eight days ago. Their fate was a mystery until yesterday, when a Uruguayan official statement said, the bodies were found with those of other persons executed by the militia.

Today's break in diplomatic relations was the second time within the year that Uruguay, South America's smallest nation, had severed dealings with a foreign state. Earlier in the year Montevideo handed the Russian minister his passport and recalled his own envoy from Moscow, alleging the Soviet legation here had become a centre of Communist propaganda in South America.

LARGE FORCE OF DEFENDERS

At the same time, more conservative observers pointed out the government was concentrating large forces on the Maqueda-Madrid highway, which, although untried, must be reckoned with.

High officers of the insurgent provisional government refused detailed information concerning the drive, some forty miles southwest of Madrid, but insurgent radio broadcasts predicted the fall of the Spanish capital at an early date.

HIGH OFFICERS

At the same time, more conservative observers pointed out the government was concentrating large forces on the Maqueda-Madrid highway, which, although untried, must be reckoned with.

It was believed Franco, now at the junction of highways leading both to Madrid and to Toledo, twenty-four miles to the southeast, must halt somewhere to consolidate his position.

EXPLORED FIELD

The taking of Maqueda yesterday, officers said, was a strategic operation, not a "grand rush." They said Gen. Franco had been busy for days exploring the field and laying government defences before the main body of troops moved up.

Reports from the front today said the occupation of Maqueda had been "completed" and that many prisoners were taken.

BRIDGE DESTROYED

Associated Press
Toledo, Spain, Sept. 22.—Three incendiary bombs destroyed a strategic railway bridge just northwest of Toledo today while 1,000 fresh troops were rushed to Torrijos, on the Maqueda highway, to stem a major rightist advance.

The Fascist planes made their daring raid on the bridge at Barajas, linking Madrid and Extremadura, while government troops again were storming the beleaguered Alcazar in Toledo.

Marked Upswing In Real Estate

Influx of Prairie People and Retiring Home-seekers Sets Prices Rising; Small Lots in Demand

Following a record wave of tourist travel this summer, the real estate business here is quite active, agents generally agree.

Letters from people who state they will come to settle here, and seeking details of property, have mounted above pre-depression levels. Many families have seen property here and are arranging to return and purchase it.

Aberl and prairie families lead the influx looking for farm homes and small city lots and houses. Many are pouring in from the United States, some forced by farming conditions to leave their homes, some seeking country estates.

Almost all buyers are paying cash, agents state.

Dairy farming has attracted many wealthy people from the eastern parts of the United States and people in England, who are returning, are buying some of the bigger farms and country houses upland.

There was a decided increase in real estate sales this summer. H. M. Hall of Pemberton and Son, said this morning, "Indications point to the increase being still greater."

Air Rifle Is Used By Striker

Three Men Injured in Clashes in Minneapolis; Fire in Sheds

Associated Press
Minneapolis, Sept. 22.—Three men were injured, two by shots from an air rifle, and two buildings were fired in an outbreak today at the Archer-Daniels-Midland Company's linseed products plant, scene of a strike of union cereal, feed and flour workers.

Ray La Mere, operator of a searchlight with which the company illuminated its property and the strikers' picket lines, was shot in the eye by an air rifle sniper, and a fellow employee was wounded in the arm.

One man described by the police as a striker was taken to a hospital for treatment of severe lacerations of the head. He said he was Dick Foster, twenty-five.

Windows in the plant were shattered by stones thrown and firebombs set in two sheds during the disorder. The linseed plant was closed recently after a walkout of employees demanding union recognition and salary readjustments, but was reopened last week. Picketing followed.

Canadian Press from Havas
London, Sept. 22.—The government today collected $668,754 ($4,843,770) in inheritance taxes from the estate of the late Sir Henry Wellcome, explorer, scientist and pharmaceutical pioneer and magnate, who totalled £2,138,990 ($10,694,795).

When the new board of directors of the Canadian National Railway meets it will be joined by R. L. Daly, above, a railway conductor running out of Winnipeg. Mr. Daly has just been chosen by the employees of the system to represent them on the board. The other six directors were all chosen directly by the government.

M. De Micheli, head of the Italian delegation, wrote to the president of the congress, expressing regret he was no longer able to participate in its work.

No reason was given. The broadcasting congress just is terminating its discussions. However, Italian circles said the withdrawal was a manifestation of Italy's displeasure

Two Kings at Sofia

King Edward VIII was guest of King Boris of Bulgaria on a sightseeing tour of Sofia recently as he passed through that city on his way from Turkey to Vienna and home to London. Cheering crowds greeted their car as it drove through the capital. The picture was taken just before the two monarchs stepped into the auto.

Japan Marines Are Landed at Points In China

WHEAT PRICE STILL RISING

Associated Press
Hankow, China, Sept. 22.—Two hundred Japanese marines landed here today.

The detachment, reported to be part of a permanent patrol, came from Japan aboard Japanese destroyers because of the slaying Saturday of a Japanese consular policeman.

As the marines went ashore, the first normal negotiations over the killing ended in an evident deadlock. Yoshiaki Miura, Japanese consul-general, sought an agreement from the Chinese admitting responsibility for the killing.

Chinese officials, however, insisted the policeman was slain in the Japanese concession and China, therefore, was not legally responsible.

Tokio, Sept. 22.—Japanese marines were reported loading arms and ammunition aboard naval transports today at the coastal base of Sasebo on Kyushu Island in preparation for an expedition to China.

The Navy Ministry yesterday ordered marines to sail for China to protect Japanese nationals and interests from "anti-Japanese terrorism."

Sasebo was understood to be the port, twenty-four hours sailing from Shanghai, from which the force of specially-trained marines was to embark.

Three recent incidents followed the sailing command followed the chief purpose of the expedition, at least for the present, was to strengthen diplomatic pressure which (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

Mrs. Mollison To Fly in Race

Canadian Press from Havas
London, Sept. 22.—Mrs. Amy Johnson Mollison, famous British long-distance flier, today asked the organizers of the forthcoming London-Johannesburg air race for permission to fly the "Miss Liverpool," the craft in which the aviator Tom Campbell Black was killed last Saturday in the event.

The London-Johannesburg race will start next week. Black, who with C. W. A. Scott won the great London-Melbourne air derby in 1934, was killed when his machine collided with a Royal Air Force bomber at the Speke airport, near Liverpool.

RELIEF ROLLS AT NEW LOW

Fewer Drawing Government Aid, But Single Men Create Problem

British Columbia relief rolls dipped to a new low for the post-depression period in August, according to provincial relief authorities today.

The statistics show that 15,000 heads of families, with 41,672 persons dependent on them, and 12,018 single persons, were granted relief during the month, a total of 66,690.

This was a drop of 5,179 from July, and a reduction of 10,967 from the roll of August, 1935.

In the normal course of events the list will be further reduced for September, usually the lowest month of the year, and then will increase during the winter.

August was an improvement of 14 per cent from last year and 23 per cent over the same month of 1934.

While the authorities were encouraged by the steady drop in the relief figures as a reflection of improving economic conditions, they were faced this week with the problem of dealing with single unemployed men during the coming winter.

Premier Pattullo said today the whole matter would be discussed by the relief department this weekend or next week with Humphrey Mitchell, contact officer of the federal labor department, who will be on the coast.

TRAINING FOR FLIERS

London, Sept. 22 (Canadian Press)—Capt. H. F. C. Crookshank, Secretary for Mines, will receive a deputation next week of South Wales coal mine owners. They wish to discuss with him Canada's resumption of trade relations with Russia, particularly the agreement to admit Russian anthracite into the Dominion.

The May option during the brisk advance touched $1.10 1/2, a new high since August, 1930.

Ethiopia Before World Court

League Assembly, Troubled By Selassie's Insistence on Seat, Sends Question of Whether Country Is Italian to Jurists

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Geneva, Sept. 22—Premier Mussolini, in what Geneva considered a gesture of defiance, ordered the Italian delegation to bolt the International Conference on Broadcasts here today.

M. De Micheli, head of the Italian delegation, wrote to the president of the congress, expressing regret he was no longer able to participate in its work.

Agreement to take this historic step was unanimous by the credentials committee of the League Assembly.

The recommendation must, however, be approved by the Assembly itself.

League officials eyed the development apprehensively. They said it might cause Premier Mussolini not to refuse to resume collaboration with the League, but might mean his resignation from Geneva. Some prominent statesmen, it became known, were fearful concerning prospects for rebuilding Europe's peace machinery.

TO LEGAL EXPERTS

Having agreed on the World Court appeal, the credentials committee split on the question of whether the Ethiopians have a right to participate in

Propaganda Ministry at Berlin Denies Hitler Is to Drop Many of Present Duties and Continue as "Torch Bearer," But Report Is Believed by Many Observers; Statements at Recent Nuremberg Convention Recalled

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Correspondent

Berlin, Sept. 22.—A widely-circulated report Adolf Hitler may resign as Nazi Chancellor and retain the simple title of "Der Fuehrer" (the Leader) was pondered today by Germany, but the Propaganda Ministry denied the report officially.

The same report mentioned Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering as Hitler's possible successor. Goering was vacationing in east Prussia today.

Persons in authoritative circles refused to comment on the predictions, confining their expressions to an evasive "we have not heard of it."

However, the persistency with which the report has cropped up again and again, and the divers and cautious quarters from which it emanates have led some observers to believe there might be an actual basis for the forecast.

AN TORCH BEARER

Before assuming power, Hitler often told his supporters:

"I am merely your torch bearer. You must close in behind me and attend to the details."

LABOR LEADER AT HEARING

Dave Beck Called to Testify in Seattle at P.-I. Strike Inquiry

Associated Press

Seattle, Sept. 22—National Labor Board Examiner Edwin S. Smith today granted the Hearst interests application for a subpoena summoning Dave Beck, coast representative of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters as a witness in the Post Intelligence and American Newspaper Guild hearing.

Edward G. Woods, Hearst attorney, obtained the order in an effort to show by Beck that Frank M. Lynch, discharged photographer, sought picketing aid for the guild chapter's strike which closed the paper August 13.

LAST WITNESS

The president of the Seattle chapter of the American Newspaper Guild, H. Richard Seller, who said he twice denied to his city editor he was a guild member, was listed as the last witness today in the government's case against the Post-Intelligence.

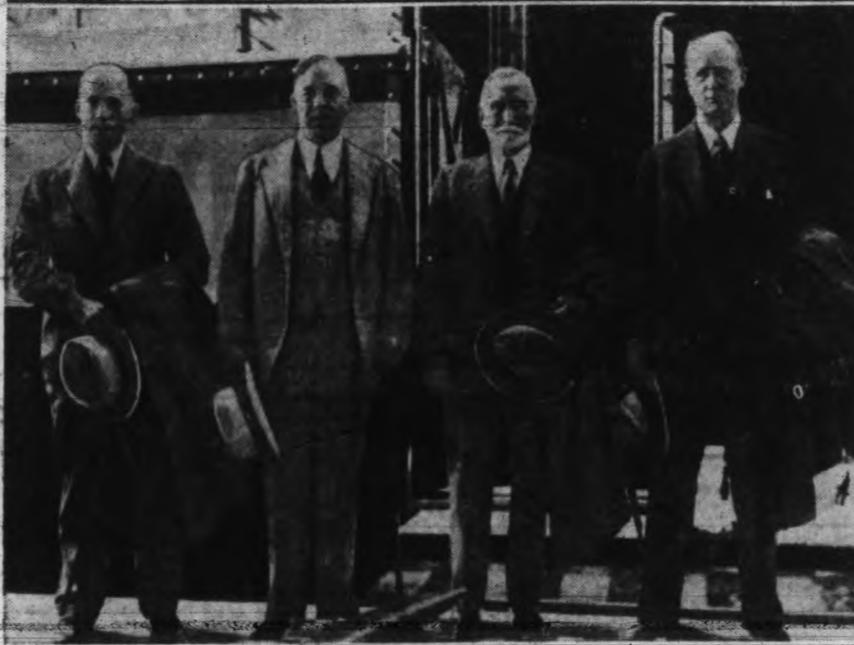

Under direct examination by Robert B. Watt, counsel for the board, Seller, striking general assignment reporter, testified he had denied his guild membership because he was afraid.

When he did tell his city editor, Oliver S. Morris, he belonged to the guild, Seller said he also remarked he was "sore" because of an article in the Guild Reporter (National A.N.G. organ) and would become inactive in the guild.

Seller said Morris told him that William Randolph Hearst was opposed to guild ideas and the guild "would not get very far with the Hearst organization."

Britain Stronger In Mediterranean

Instead of Withdrawing, United Kingdom Will Add Defences, Says Sir S. Hoare After Tour

Associated Press

London, Sept. 22—Great Britain intends "to make its position secure for the future" in the Mediterranean, Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty, declared today on his return from an inspection cruise.

The sisters were charged with killing Sylvester Walsh, "by administering gas and tablets." They admitted killing him, declaring they had done it to fulfill a promise to their mother and "for love of our brother."

NO NEW POLICY

In response to demands in the Italian press that Britain clarify her "new" Mediterranean policy, the United Kingdom has been made under a complete misapprehension.

"We have no new policy," he said. "Our policy there is today exactly what it has always been, namely, to live on the friendliest relations possible with other Mediterranean powers and to make it secure for our communications.

"But that is not a threat against us."

Church Music Limits Restated

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 22—"O Canada" and "God Save the King" are among the songs and anthems banned in Roman Catholic churches by a pastoral letter of Archbishop Forbes. Wedding marches used the world over are banned also.

Father L. Bebludin, secretary to the Archbishop, said yesterday the reason for the pastoral was the desire of the church for the exclusive use of the Gregorian chants and Gregorian music. If the music was not Gregorian, it was not religious and could not be used in the churches.

Quebec, Sept. 22—Abbe Paul Bernier, chancellor of the Archdiocese of Quebec, said today there was nothing new in the ban by Archbishop Forbes of Ottawa against the playing of "profane" music in the Catholic church.

Playing or singing of the National Anthem in a church, he said, "never may be considered as part of the liturgy, which includes only religious anthems."

Lots which for years had been sold at ridiculously low prices were rapidly disappearing from the market, he said, and farms were in decided demand.

G. Brady of Gillespie, Hart and Co. agreed that the influx from the prairies, especially from Alberta, had jumped to a new level this summer.

"There is no question that real estate conditions here are much improved," he said.

"A different type of people is coming to the Island this year," said E. F. Burton of P. R. Brown and Sons. "Our clients from the prairies and from other parts of the continent are bringing money with them, instead of paying as they can."

Rentals, he said, were becoming higher, and good houses to rent were getting scarce.

BAKEWELL NOW OUT OF C.C.F. AS SCHOOL AID

Mackenzie Member Resigns From Party; Connell Launches New Group

Ernest Bakewell, member of the British Columbia Legislature for Mackenzie, today handed in his resignation from membership in the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation of British Columbia.

At the same time Mr. Bakewell announced he would continue to support Rev. Robert Connell, Opposition Leader in the Legislature, who broke with the C.C.F. provincial executive following the recent party convention.

Mr. Bakewell's letter, addressed to the secretary of the party provincial executive, read:

"After a great deal of consideration I have decided to resign from membership in the C.C.F. organization in British Columbia.

"As a member of the Legislature, my first duty is to the people of Mackenzie district, irrespective of their political views; hence I cannot follow the dictates of your central executive, which is, after all, elected by only a small portion of the people of the province.

"I feel that the present structure of the C.C.F. organization can be used to violate the principle of democratic government."

BACKS CONNELL

"I will continue to support Mr. Connell as leader of the opposition, believing this to be in the best interests of good government."

Mr. Bakewell said he would be one of three supporting Mr. Connell in the provincial House. The others he named as R. B. Swales, Delta, and J. Price, Vancouver East. Supporting the provincial executive in the Legislature are H. E. Winch, Vancouver, E. E. Winch, Burnaby, and Mrs. D. G. Steeves, North Vancouver.

Dr. Lyle Telford, newly-elected leader of the C.C.F., was defeated by J. Howard Forrester, Liberal, when he sought the Vancouver-Burrard Legislature seat in the September 3 bye-election.

SERVICE CONSTITUENTS

In a statement issued with his resignation, Mr. Bakewell said it was his conviction that when a member is elected to the Legislature it was for the purpose of serving his constituents and not a political machine."

The C.C.F. at one time were among the severest critics of that system, attacking the Liberal government on the grounds the Legislature members were dictated to from behind the scenes," Mr. Bakewell said.

The portrayal of Marley's ghost was awarded first prize, and the presentation of awards was made by Lady Dickens, wife of the late Sir Henry Dickens, son of Charles Dickens. Mrs. Chapple described the manner in which the contractors were welcomed to the hall and introduced in Dickensian fashion.

Mrs. Chapple will give her second talk, entitled "The Ride to Rochester," at a meeting of the fellowship to be held on October 19.

H. L. Fenham, president of the fellowship, was in the chair at last night's meeting. Arrangements were discussed for a performance to be given here on November 4 by the Dickens Dramatic Players of the Vancouver Fellowship, who will present sketches from the works of the author. Tentative plans were made to use the memorial hall of the Church of Our Lord, Blanchard Street.

Tomorrow night Mr. Connell will formally launch his new party, which thus has four elected members. He will speak over station CJOR in Vancouver at 7:30 o'clock, the first of a series of four Wednesday night broadcasts.

Ralph Lancaster Appointed Chief Factor of Local Post at Annual Meeting

Ralph Lancaster was elected chief factor of Post No. 1, Native Sons of British Columbia, at the group's annual meeting, held last night in the Broad Street Lodge rooms. He succeeds H. B. Sargison, who becomes past chief factor.

Other officers elected at the meeting were: Vice-factor, C. Laundy; chaplain, L. Westendale; secretary, Harry Short; treasurer, G. Bothwell; senior guide, C. G. McMillioye; junior guide, W. Pealland; outer sentinel, A. V. Simpson; inner sentinel, J. Lorimer; historian, C. C. Pemberton; trustees, J. Moss, Robert Hiscock and W. Church, and auditor, George Gardner. Mr. Simpson was added to the board of trustees for Craigflower School.

Members stood in silent tribute to the memory of the late W. H. Kinsman.

The annual lacrosse banquet will be held at the K. of P. Hall at 8:30 o'clock on the evening of Tuesday, September 26, it was decided. Tickets for the banquet may be obtained from Short's Cafe, Douglas Street; Westendale's Confectionary, Yates Street, and H. B. Sargison, E 4061.

A class of candidates will be initiated by a degree team at the October meeting of the post. It was announced, and the newly elected officers will be installed by the grand factor, Bruce A. McElroy.

An announcement was made by E. Bell, president of the central association, that the annual meeting of Saanich Liberals will be held in Hampton Hall on October 19.

Pentiction, B.C., Sept. 22.—Possibility that motion pictures and radios might brighten the schoolroom learning of British Columbia's students was projected into the annual meeting of the school trustees' convention which assembled here today.

A resolution requesting authorities to investigate possible use of radio and movies to help pupils in mastering certain subjects was passed by the delegates in session yesterday evening.

Other resolutions asked the government for more adequate manning, training inspection and more thorough supervision of musical studies.

Another resolution suggesting amendment to the School Act to allow two or more districts to unite in employing a nurse also was approved by the delegates.

Discussion of the larger administrative areas, now being experimented with in the Sunnys-Matzqui-Abbotsford district, became heated as delegates expressed fear that authority might pass from the hands of local trustees.

Mr. Pratt, of the administrative area, brought a storm of protest when he told delegates: "The trouble is many of you are afraid that you are going to lose your position as trustees."

Delegates closely connected with the scheme, however, commended the experiment.

A Lost Cause

THE CO-OPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH Federation seems to be having a very trying time. The Telford-Connell incident caused the first rift in the party's political line. There is no prospect of it being healed. Now comes the resignation of Mr. Ernest Bakewell, member of his party for Mackenzie, who has stated emphatically that he will continue to support the Rev. Robert Connell as leader of the official opposition in the Legislature.

Mr. Bakewell's letter to the secretary of the C.C.F. provincial executive reads in part as follows:

"After a great deal of consideration I have decided to resign from membership in the C.C.F. organization in British Columbia."

As a member of the Legislature, my first duty is to the people of Mackenzie district, irrespective of their political views; hence I cannot follow the dictates of your central executive which is, after all, elected by only a small portion of the people of the province.

I feel that the present structure of the C.C.F. organization can be used to violate the principle of democratic government."

I will continue to support Mr. Connell as Leader of the Opposition, believing this to be in the best interests of good government.

The Patullo government has done a good job for the province of British Columbia. It is one of the few governments that, after three years in office, has won two by-elections in constituencies in which there were factors of public thought not favorable to the administration. Mr. Bakewell's resignation from the C.C.F., of course, furnishes new evidence that the "third party" in this province is dead—as was the Provincial Party more than a decade ago.

Building Revival Aid

ACCORDING TO A SURVEY MADE by the National Employment Commission of Canada, the rehabilitation and remodeling of existing houses, tenements and apartment blocks offer an opportunity for the employment of approximately $200,000,000. The interim report of the Commission points out that there is a great need for houses which can be constructed to rent at $15 to $25 per month.

It is felt that through remodeling and modernizing old houses this could easily be accomplished. It is estimated that the proposed modernization plan will take between four and five years to complete. Of the total to be spent, about $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 will be consumed during the first year and a half.

High mortgage rates is one of the reasons why low cost housing and modernization of old buildings has not as yet occurred on a substantial scale. The Commission therefore is exploring the possibility of establishing a building finance corporation with municipal or provincial backing. It believes that by pooling the element of risk it can provide funds for home building at a cost only fractionally higher than is now being paid for government bonds. Those familiar with the building industry in Canada are of the opinion that it is not necessary to obtain government funds for this purpose. They believe that it would be sufficient for the government merely to guarantee the payment of principal and interest on these obligations and if the plan were carefully carried out the government would bear no losses. The experience of the United States in remodeling and modernizing homes has greatly encouraged the Canadian backers of this scheme. In the two years during which it made loans of about $800,000,000, the United States government is reported to have lost about 1/2 of 1 per cent of the face amount.

In Canada, as in the United States, it is becoming increasingly clear that a real revival of business depends largely upon the resumption of building activity. Although neither country suffers from a lack of capital, past experience with mortgage financing has made institutions as well as individual capitalists hesitant in extending credit for the building of low-cost houses. Therefore, if a method could be found whereby the risk of the lender could be reduced, sufficient capital at relatively low prices could be obtained.

Not only would the modernization of old buildings and the establishment of new houses at a low rental be a powerful stimulus to business revival but it would also have beneficial social effects. It would raise the standard of living and tend to improve the health of that portion of the population which is improperly housed.

No Landing Field Here

THE OTHER DAY A DISTIN- guished Canadian airmen flew an airplane from Vancouver to Lethbridge in three hours. We are told that it was not a test of speed, but a "leisurely flight" at less than 150 miles an hour.

Whatever kind of flight it was, it was another demonstration of the manner in which Canada, and the world in general, has shrunk as science in aeronautics has progressed. By train from Vancouver to Kamloops the time taken is about ten hours; from Vancouver to Calgary it is more than twenty-four hours.

This comparison in travel time causes us to ponder. It also suggests to us that Victoria, except for seaplane service, is not on the North American air map. It is about time this community prepared a landing field for machines which glide to earth on wheels.

And What of It?

OUR EDITORIAL FLESH POSITIVELY refuses to creep as a result of a dispatch from Berlin which tells us that millions of Germans between the ages of twenty-five and forty-five are carrying in their vest pockets a secret order informing them exactly when and where they must report in the event of war.

Evidently these are the "dog days" in Germany for some newspaper correspondents. Every German of military age a quarter of a century ago knew exactly what to do in the event of war. His kit was ready to hand; he did not have to look in a military directory to know where to report. Indeed, his kit was regularly inspected in order that, if an emergency should arise, it would be 100 per cent effective.

Germany by no means leads the world in this form of preparedness. There are no millions of Britons running around the highways and byways of the British Isles with a "secret order" in their vest pockets. But every recruit, every territorial, and others liable for duty, know what to do when something in the way of national defence is required.

Incidentally, well-informed observers are making light of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's bellicose attitude, which for the most part seems to be dished out for the benefit of the more ardent and ambitious spirits of the Nazi Party. Germany can not afford another war.

LOOSE ENDS

Alberta is too materialistic, but British Columbia maintains its other-worldliness at all costs—the public loves its all-day suckers, especially if they are moistened with strong men's tears. And Sir Josiah forgets the urge for 1937 models.

BY BRUCE HUTCHISON

MATERIALISM

REV. F. VINCETT, minister of the Mennonites at Didsbury, Alberta, has resigned because he can see no confirmation of Premier Aberhart's financial views in the Scriptures and because his criticism of Social Credit from the pulpit was objectionable to many of his congregation.

"I see," said he, "a wave of materialism sweeping Alberta, to the detriment of spiritual values."

Apparently, the present rush for social dividends among the Albertans is destroying their spirituality and making them too materialistic. So what is Mr. Vincent going to do? He is coming to British Columbia immediately. This is a real recognition of our lofty British Columbia spirit. For in British Columbia, as all the world knows, the only reason we don't attempt any large financial reforms is that we are too spiritual. We hold these material things in contempt. That is our real objection to Social Credit and to Mr. Aberhart. They are too worldly. Mr. Vincent should enjoy the pure serenity of our atmosphere.

PHENOMENA

NOW THAT the phenomenon has been removed from these parts and no theatre's business can suffer from mention of it, it seems time to reflect on the success of the movie, "San Francisco," which has broken box office records everywhere.

The magazine Time got itself into a lot of hot water by saying that this picture exhibited two remarkable phenomena—the San Francisco earthquake and Jeanette MacDonald acting with her teeth, and that of the two, the latter was the more appalling. I thought these were hard words at the time, but on seeing "San Francisco," as a whole, I thought it and its public success were hardly enough to meet the challenges of the present era; hardly enough, one would think, to save a world hell-bent for destruction.

"San Francisco" is compounded of bathos and bunk and sodden with goo, a thoroughly false, insincere, tongue-in-the-cheek picture of life, a sickly melodrama of the gay nineties, with only Clark Gable added to make it look modern. The addition does not greatly improve the original. But the public likes it. The public likes to see a strong man break down and pray, and virtue vindicated and tough guys weeping on the waterfront. We are still mid-Victorians under the rouge and lipstick and in the mass not yet fourteen years of age. Hollywood knows what kind of all-day suckers we like best.

LONG RUN

SIR JOSIAH STAMP has lately defended the machine from the frequent charge that it causes unemployment. After going through all the aspects of technological development, Sir Josiah concludes that in the long run the machine creates more employment than it destroys, because it provides work in the manufacture of machinery itself, by reducing prices so that far greater quantities of various commodities may be consumed by the public, and by leaving the public more money to spend on other goods.

This is what happens in the long run, but unfortunately it is a very long run, and man's run is so short, less than a century at best. He is not like a machine which can lie idle and be started again at any time. He has to eat every day. To such a delicate and fragile organism, it isn't much comfort for the economists to say, "Don't worry, my man, just because a machine has thrown you out of a job." In the course of a couple of decades the new machine will create more work by a process of adjustment which should begin to operate around 1960. By 1970 you should get another job at considerably higher wages running the new machine."

What the unemployed man wants to know is how he gets his breakfast tomorrow morning and, also, this simple question: the economists have been unable to answer so far.

Men's great revolutions, of which the present is the greatest up to now, are geared to run on a long-term basis, but his stomach is geared to run on three meals every twenty-four hours.

Something will have to be done about the gearing of one or the other. I doubt if you can change the gearing of the stomach.

THE 1937 MODELS

SIR JOSIAH'S proposal for re-gearing the revolution is that we should regulate new inventions so that they can be absorbed quietly and slowly, instead of being allowed to cause waves of unemployment. If a man invented a new mouse trap designed to catch more mice than the present ones, he would not be allowed to introduce it to commerce for a certain period, until the mouse traps had time to adjust themselves to the new conditions.

There is something rather attractive in this notion. At present a large percentage of humanity frets itself into a fever because it can't afford a 1937 automobile in 1936. The fact that the 1937 model has a slightly different curve to the mudguard and a new kind of cigarette lighter is a continual reproach to the owner of a 1936 model. He feels as if he belonged to another prehistoric age. He hardly dares to say good-morning to his neighbor, who has bought a new car. He drives along side streets because his own bus, being nine months old, is hopelessly out of date, like a suit tailored fifty years ago. In the same way a house is out of date in ten years and all the nifty bungalows you see on all sides today, the last word in finish, shiny tiling, and electrical cocktail mixers, will be shoddy and mid-Victorian ten years from now, when everything is made of steel and glass, and ceilings are all chrome and furniture all glistening steel.

It would be comforting for the owner of a 1936 home and a 1936 car to think that his investment was safe for a few years, that he would not be humiliated and living in a slum by 1938, but, alas, Sir Josiah's notion won't work. You and I might stand for it, but the man just buying a new car will insist on the 1937 model in order to get the improved cigarette lighter. Thus the process of invention and unemployment goes on, and since men will insist on new and improved cigarette lighters you can't stop invention. It might be better to begin to think about adjusting ourselves to it before we are all invented out of a job.

LOSERS ON SIMPLE HAND

Nine of Eleven Declarers Fail to Count Tricks, and Go Down One, When Overtrick Is Possible

By WM. E. MCKENNEY

Had South, declarer on the hand given today, stopped to count his tricks before he played a card from dummy, the story of this hand would never have been told. Actually the hand is simple, though perhaps not as simple as it looks, for it was played in an eleven-table duplicate game, and only two of the declarers took the precaution to start their count at the very first trick, and thus gather in an overtrick instead of scoring "down one."

When the diamond three was opened nine of the declarers, all of whom reached the same contract, played the nine of diamonds from dummy and East won with the king, returning the ten of spades. Three spade tricks then were cashed and the contract was set one trick.

Tragic Appeal To Red Cross

Work of Organization Illustrated in Letter Seeking Clothes For Orphans

Most people have never heard of Groundbirch, a tiny isolated community near Pouce Coupe in British Columbia.

Most people would think that Groundbirch was just a queer name, a heritage of pioneer days, and let it pass at that—but Groundbirch has a tragic meaning to the Canadian Red Cross Society here.

In releasing the pathetic letter which he received from this tiny settlement in the backwoods, Hugh Birch Jones, provincial commissioner, believes that it will give people some idea of the appeals which the Red Cross receives, especially now that the Victoria Branch and the Provincial Division are launching a campaign for $15,000 in the city.

PATHETIC APPEAL

The letter, dated August 26, which is a recent, though by no means, the most recent S.O.S. sent to the headquarters in the Belmont Building, follows:

"I am asking for help on a poor family who haven't any parents. There are six in the family. No one can work for his own living. Their father and mother went out of their mind in one week."

"I am taking care of them, but they haven't anything to put on their bodies."

"The names and ages are as follows: Sam, fourteen years; Fred, twelve years; Joe, nine years; Florence, seven years; George, three years; Norman, one year."

"The four have to go to school on the first of September and no clothes to put on their bodies."

"I would be very obliged if you would send some clothes for the poor children."

"Will be pleased to hear from you soon."

"Please send me some clothes for the family as soon as possible."

THREE CHILDREN

"There could be no more pathetic story than this one written by the crude hand of a pioneer woman, and yet this is typical of the appeals which the Red Cross is constantly receiving."

Here are six little children orphaned when their parents go mad. A neighbor who has probably a large inheritance has taken them in. She does not mind providing them with food, but she is so poor she cannot get clothes for them. School time is approaching and they must have something to wear, so she appeals to the Red Cross.

Mr. Birch-Jones immediately wrote to T. Jamieson, president of the Canadian Red Cross Branch at Pouce Coupe instructing him to investigate the case at once, and if found genuine to see that the condition of distress is relieved without delay.

"This is only a very small part of our work," declared Mr. Birch-Jones in announcing that the Red Cross campaign for $15,000 in Victoria will start on Thursday, September 24.

"We must have funds to carry on with. We cannot let this kind of thing go."

DO ME A FAVOR

Constable: "Sorry, but you'll have to be summoned for driving at fifty miles an hour."

Motorist: "Couldn't you charge me with driving at eighty... officer? I want to sell the car and it would jump the price up."

The names and ages are as follows: Sam, fourteen years; Fred, twelve years; Joe, nine years; Flor-

NO MORE PIMPLES

"Thanks: Eno, my young daughter, who has been troubled with adolescent pimples for some time, now has a fine clear skin. After trying yeast and various blood purifying treatments I decided to give Eno a trial. I cannot say how pleased I was to see her skin clear up in three weeks' time."

Manslaughter Hearing Opens

Evidence of Drinking Introduced at Preliminary Hearing of Herbert Osgood

Evidence that Herbert Osgood showed signs of having been drinking when taken to St. Joseph's Hospital after the fatal accident on September 5 on Esquimalt Road, was introduced yesterday when Osgood was before Magistrate Henry Hall in Esquimalt Police Court on a charge of manslaughter.

The charge arose from the death of Eugene (Gene) Rosin, who succumbed a few hours after the accident in which he sustained severe injuries when the car driven by Osgood, in which Rosin was a passenger, struck two telephone poles near the Island Weavers plant.

Herbert W. Davey conducted the defense and G. H. Sedgwick prosecuted. Testimony as to Osgood's condition was given by police who attended the accident and Dr. J. H. Moore, attending physician, at St. Joseph's.

Mr. F. D. Warren and Mr. McKenney left yesterday on a visit to Seattle.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today

SEPTEMBER 22, 1911

(From The Times Files)

The Laurier government was crushingly defeated at the Dominion election yesterday, the Conservatives winning out by a total of 130 seats to 87. In British Columbia the Conservatives lost only one seat.

In a mile race which kept up the interest of the spectators from the start to the finish Del Hodnett, the local champion, defeated W. Hall, reported coast champion, at the Assembly roller skating rink last evening.

On the county court list for next month there are twenty trials set down. Eleven are set over from last month and nine are new trials.

On Wednesday afternoon Mr. Albert Wilson Rowles and Miss Laura Annie Hodnett, both of this city, were united in matrimony at the Metropolitan Methodist parsonage by the Rev. T. E. Holling. The couple left on the afternoon boat for Seattle, where the honeymoon will be spent.

Red Hair Ousts
Platinum Blond

Canadian Press

Montreal, Sept. 22.—The girl with the platinum hair and those deftly pencilled lines over her eyes has gone—out of style for all types.

In her place has come, or is coming just as much as the idea catches, one with hot, flaming hair. The redder the hair, the more brilliant the colour. And with it will come a substantial crop of eyes.

At least, that's the opinion of President P. Richard of the American section of the Master Ladies' Hairdressers, here today to lecture at the annual convention of Eastern Canada Hairdressers' Convention.

The reddish hair will be done in the style of Empress Josephine, according to Mr. Richard, and for evening wear there will be in the hair ribbons, cellulose, feathers, puffs and false curly.

Catholic Y.P.S.—The Catholic Young People's Club and the Junior Catholic Women's League will hold a joint meeting in the K. of C. Hall on Wednesday evening, September 23, at 8:30 o'clock. A programme of lectures and study clubs for the winter will be drawn up. Others who may be interested are invited to attend.

Vocational Training Is Aim

Mrs. Paul Smith, M.P.P.,
Tells School
Trustees' Convention

Canadian Press

Penticton, B.C., Sept. 22.—A system of education under which talents of students would be discovered and developed was outlined by Mrs. Paul Smith, M.P.P., yesterday, as the aim of the British Columbia department of education.

Speaking at the opening session of the British Columbia School Trustees' Association annual convention, Mrs. Smith reported that a change in curriculum effected this year in grades one to six, was but the first step towards revision of the educational programme in the province.

It was hoped that by next September the junior and senior high school courses of study would have been revised and put into effect, she said. The new aim of education was away from purely academic and cultural subjects and more towards vocational training.

It was the hope of the department to so arrange the educational programme that during the early stages the talent of the child would be discovered, and during the later school period these talents would be developed and directed, so that when the child was ready to leave school he would do so as a trained worker.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

The aim will be to include in the educational set-up of the province vocational training schools, and with them employment bureaus, where industry may obtain trained workers.

This system was being followed in several states with considerable success, and it was felt a similar move in British Columbia would fit the child better for a place in the world upon leaving school.

The educational department hopes to be able to make use of a portion of the $750,000 annual grant made by the Dominion Government for vocational training, as well as some of the $50,000,000 made available to the newly-appointed employment commission.

The thirty-second annual convention of the association will continue until Wednesday.

Mrs. E. Mahon, first vice-president, of Vancouver, was in the chair.

The morning session was taken up with introductory addresses and the reading of reports.

Mystery Trip

Romance or career? Which has brought Sarah Churchill, daughter of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, former British cabinet member, to America? After she sailed from England it was announced she was on her way to marry Vic Oliver, comedian; her brother Randolph, sailed the next day, with the alleged intention of stopping the match; and Oliver said she was only joining one of his vaudeville shows. Pictured on arrival at New York, Miss Churchill's inscrutable appearance provides no clue to the mystery.

At Chilliwack

Mrs. J. A. Gillespie of Vancouver was elected president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of B.C. at the annual convention last week in Chilliwack. Other officers for the ensuing year are: Honorary presidents, Mrs. Wm. Grant, Victoria, and Mrs. C. C. Street, Victoria; vice-presidents, Mrs. James Gray, Vancouver; Mrs. W. C. Kelly, Summerland, and Mrs. E. W. Laing, Victoria; corresponding secretary, Miss Grace Fulton; recording secretary, Mrs. John McPherson; treasurer, Mrs. C. W. Yapp; Y.P.B. secretary, Miss Edna Grant; L.T.L. secretary, Mrs. C. Drake.

ADDRESS AND REPORTS

The inspiring presidential address given at the convention by Mrs. J. A. Gillespie, will be published in the organization's Year Book, also the outlines of educational policies adopted for further use.

Mrs. C. Spofford gave the report for the W.C.T.U. home in Victoria, where many girls and women receive shelter and a helping hand. Mrs. W. C. Kelly of Summerland stated that much educational work is being done among boys and girls of the Okanagan district and the report of Vancouver District showed decided progress in all departments.

Mrs. A. Cantell conducted an impressive memorial service at which Miss Isabel Macbeth was the soloist.

At the convention banquet, when greetings were extended from various Chilliwack organizations, Mrs. Gillespie was the recipient of a bouquet presented by little Miriam Creelman on behalf of the City of Chilliwack.

Rev. A. E. Cooke of Vancouver took as his subject: "The Church Faces a Crisis," at the closing session.

Major Hurndall of Chilliwack arranged a drive for the delegates through the Chilliwack Valley and to Cultus Lake.

Miss Agnes Bell Creeth, who has been visiting her old home in Victoria, left this afternoon on a way south to her home in Oakland, Calif., where her husband, Dr. E. Creeth, is practising.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace F. Plumley, Clarence Street, returned on Sunday from England, where they have been spending the last two months.

Miss Mary Lou Ross, St. Patrick Street, is spending several weeks in Calgary, where she is the guest of Miss Daphne Allen, formerly of The Uplands.

Miss Margery Benson was over to bar. The gifts were presented in a magazine stand, together with a kitchen chair, which were both very prettily decorated. The table was centered by a silver bowl of gladioli and pink candles made the color scheme very effective. A decorated bride's cake was cut during the evening by the bride-to-be. Among the invited guests were Mrs. T. C. Johns, Mrs. F. Lynn, Mrs. N. Lynn, Mrs. S. Kinney, Mrs. N. Goodwin and the Misses B. McDonald, K. Gillis, N. Williams, M. McDonald and F. MacDougall.

Mrs. Kenneth T. Hughes, 1259 Richardson Street, threw open her home on Saturday afternoon for a tea aid of the funds of the Second West End Douglas Company of Girl Guides. The captain, Miss L. Ryan, and Mrs. Horace Dawson, lieutenant, welcomed the guests. Mrs. E. J. Dure presided over the prettily appointed tea-table, which was centred with a bowl of blue statice, yellow daisies and orange marigolds, and illuminated by tall yellow tapers. A musical programme included songs by the Misses Denise Bethune, Bunny Cloete, Eileen Munro and Alberta White, accompanied by Marjorie White, and piano soloed by Miss Mary T. Hughes. Mrs. M. G. Sills won the box of candy, and Mrs. Adams the "Stake your claim" contest. Mrs. Hughes was presented with a lovely bouquet of carnations in appreciation of her hospitality.

In compliment to Miss Ann Bosher, Sidney, and Mr. Jonathan Slater, Victoria, whose wedding will take place on October 3, a surprise miscellaneous shower was held on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reif, 1022 Southgate Street. The gifts were presented by Cubes B. Hill-Tout and R. Rhodes, Third Victoria Pack, of which Mr. Slater is leader. The evening was spent with music and contests, refreshments being served from a prettily appointed table decorated with a miniature wedding cake. The invited guests included: Misses Ann Bosher, Mae Phillips, Doris Arman, Patti Phillips, Gwen Thorrett, Margaret and Jessie Reif, Mrs. William Mason Cooke, Mrs. R. M. Plan Classes To Train Guiders

Miss Wolton, Head
Of Foxlease
To Be Here Shortly

Training classes in Girl Guide and Brownie work will be held by Miss Wolton, Red Cord and Chief's Diamond, head of Foxlease Training School, England, at Guide headquarters, 1012 Lansley Street, on Friday evening, October 2, from 8 to 10 o'clock, and on Saturday, October 3, and Monday, October 5, from 2:30 to 4 and 8 to 10 p.m. each day.

Miss Wolton is in Canada for a three-months' training tour and it is hoped that everyone interested will take advantage of this splendid opportunity for getting fresh ideas and material for the forthcoming year's work.

At least two of the classes will be on Brownie work and will be taken by Miss Flingslas, Brown Owl, of Vancouver, who is being tested for her Eagle Owl Diploma, after having had training herself at Foxlease and Fettercairn. These Brownie classes will probably be held in the afternoons, and Rangers and any friends who would like to know more about the work will be welcomed. A very serious need for Guiders exists in the town and some companies and packs may have to be closed if leaders cannot be obtained.

Training classes in Girl Guide and Brownie work will be held by Miss Wolton, Red Cord and Chief's Diamond, head of Foxlease Training School, England, at Guide headquarters, 1012 Lansley Street, on Friday evening, October 2, from 8 to 10 o'clock. Rev. Father Geukers solemnized the marriage of Victoria Rosita, daughter of the late Mr. James Massey, Peru, and of Mrs. Massey, San Diego, Cal., and Mr. Bernard C. Barlow, Port Alberni.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. J. B. Taylor, and was unattended. She made a charming picture in her bridal gown of ivory satin, with which she wore a close-fitting white hat and veil, and carried an arm bouquet of white snapdragons, pink carnations and bouvardia. Mr. Norman McConnell was best man.

About forty guests, relatives and intimate friends were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor at their home, 809 Selkirk Avenue, after the service, in a setting of flowers and greenery, the bride and groom receiving the felicitations of their friends before the fireplace, which was banked with flowers. Later the bride cut the cake which centred the attractively-appointed supper table. The hosts were entertained by Mrs. Massey, who is visiting them and by Mrs. Barlow Sr., mother of the groom.

After a motoring trip on the mainland, for which the bride left in a brown suit, with an orange silk blouse and brown accessories, Mr. and Mrs. Barlow will make their home in Port Alberni.

Former Star Faces Poverty

Associated Press

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 22.—If Elinor Fair can regain her health, her mother said today, she may retrieve some of the film fame and fortune that was hers—and rent day will not be such an acute problem.

Miss Fair, who once earned $2,500 a week as a screen star, and her mother, Mrs. Helen Crowe, were almost evicted from their modest apartment yesterday.

They were saved in story-book fashion: Thomas Daniels, broker and second husband of Miss Fair, made a last minute appearance and arranged for them to remain in the place.

Miss Fair was married to William Boyd in 1926. They appeared together in "The Yankee Clipper" and "The Volga Boatman" before she forced her career to become a housewife. She was divorced from Boyd in 1929, married Daniels three years later and was divorced in June, 1933.

Sitting on a stage over ship-side "splashing paint on myself and the ship," chipping rusty decks, sewing canvas or even steering the steamer are in her list of nautical achievements now.

The Gardner came here yesterday with a cargo of sugar and will sail for London at the end of the month.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

"I wa-wa-want to play, out doors," says Willie, breathless with the effort to pull out the words. "You may," says his mother, "but our why won't you stop and think before you speak and try not to stammer?" (She has told herself a dozen times that she won't notice his stammering, no matter how much it annoys her, but he's such a bright boy that she is so sure he could help himself if he only would.)

When writing about his stammering his mother mentioned that Willie's father stammers at times, but he is away from home so much that she does not think this is an influence. But mimicking comrades have made Willie self-conscious, and now, whenever possible, he uses gestures instead of words. Willie is just three.

IMITATION IS NATURAL

Any little boy wants to be just like his father and to imitate his speech would be a natural thing for Willie to do. But once having stammered the fear of it would tend to keep him stammering. These two factors all authorities of stammering agree upon.

But there are seldom only these simple reasons to account for it. There may be a dozen reasons why a child stammers. It may be that this is just the halting and uneven speech of a small child and does not deserve the description of stammering.

WHAT TO DO

But because he has been exposed to the stammering influence it is essential that Willie's mother speak slowly and clearly to him.

That she avoid all notice of his stammering.

That she prevent his playing with children who mimic him.

That she read to him and sing to him and let him beat a drum, or tramp or gallop in time to music, to increase his whole bodily sense of rhythm.

Also she must avoid urging him to use his right hand, if left-handedness seems natural to him. Any parent can do these simple things in order to discourage the stammering from becoming a fixed habit.

Our leaflet, "Help for the Stammering Child," offers more suggestions and the names of books which will increase the parent's understanding of the speech problem. Send a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper, with your request for the leaflet by name.

Tomorrow: If your child day-dreams, it's a sign he is unhappy.

McGeer Is On Way to England

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 22—Mayor and Mrs. G. O. McGeer left here yesterday evening on a visit to England.

The mayor will meet financial leaders in Montreal on Friday, to discuss civic financing. He will also discuss that subject in London and Birmingham and on his return to Canada will meet representatives in Toronto.

While in England he will endeavor to interest British industrial, financial and commercial men in the proposed British Empire Fair here in 1939.

CANADIAN IN OPERATIC ROLE

Canadian Press

Toronto, Sept. 22—Former Winnipeg artist also known in Vancouver music circles, Doris Godson Gilmour has been engaged to sing the role of Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana" with the San Carlo Opera Company.

her September 30, it was announced last night.

The Canadian soprano, who in private life is Mrs. Harrison Gilmore, has been active in fostering community opera interest since she moved to Toronto. She has sung the role of Santuzza and the title rôle of La Tosca in amateur productions here.

There were 19,000 houses of refuge for lepers in Europe in the thirteenth century.

24,000 Miles With Only Rucksack

Englishwoman On Way Home After Adventures

An Englishwoman's 24,000-mile trip alone, Miss Audrey Harris of London, aged thirty, took her across Europe, Siberia, Manchukuo, Korea, Japan, Dutch East Indies, Nepal, Tibet, Afghanistan and Persia.

Now resting at Viceregal Lodge, Simla before starting on the last leg of her journey, she has completed the first year of her travels by train, boat, airplane, and on foot—with no luggage but a rucksack and no company but her own.

Miss Harris, who was presented at Court in 1925, thinks her adventures anything but extraordinary.

"I've lived so much from day to day," she told a press representative, "never making plans until the last minute, never worrying except about immediate problems, that it's difficult for me to think of the journey as a whole."

"I left London last August, and traveled third class by train to Moscow.

"Then I crossed Siberia by the Trans-Siberian Railway, traveling 'hard' class all the way. It wasn't half as uncomfortable as you'd think. We were four in a carriage, the others being an American, a Russian peasant woman and a Chinese."

"In Manchukuo I traveled about by train and lorry, sleeping in native huts and buying my food as I went along. Food was always rather a gamble, because I don't speak Russian or Chinese, and everywhere I had to ask for everything by signs! One becomes an excellent actress when really hungry."

IN ARMY LORRY

"The British authorities warned me not to try to go to Jehol, as there was trouble with bandits and the Red Army. However, I made friends with some Japanese soldiers, and by pointing and saying 'Jehol' over and over again persuaded them to take me with them in an army lorry. There was fighting going on most of the time."

"Everyone told me that I would be shot, or at least run into bandits, but I'm still alive!"

"The only time I was really frightened was when flying out of Manchukuo in a tiny Japanese airplane. There was something the matter with the exhaust, and the floor got terribly hot and then began to burn. However, we got down in time and the pilot put things right."

"I have kept a diary. Why have I done all this traveling? Ah! Just for the interest and pleasure I get out of it. Traveling alone has always been the thing I've liked best, and I was determined to see the Far East."

ERMINE IS IN BIG DEMAND

Associated Press

London, Sept. 21—the raw material has risen more than 50 per cent in view of the amount that will be used for coronation robes and evening capes during the coming season.

The magnificence of the coronation robe to be worn in Westminster Abbey has fired the imagination of designers. Rich furs such as ermine and sable will be the fashion for some time, just as velvet will be a leading material.

The large ermine collar of the crimson velvet coronation robe takes 100 yards—the robe uses thirty yards of velvet.

Fine white skins are scarce—fashion houses are collecting them as fast as they can because experts consider it probable the price will be doubled by the beginning of next year.

To Pour at Y.M.C.A. Tea

Mrs. J. O. Cameron, who will share with Miss Agnew, Mrs. S. J. Willis and Mrs. J. H. Fletcher, the rôle of pourer at the autumn and membership tea of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Y.M.C.A., which will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Watson, 2643 Cavendish Avenue, Oak Bay, tomorrow afternoon. The programme committee has been fortunate in securing Miss Phyllis Deaville and Mr. Clarence Kirchin, who will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Catherine Hole. The hostess will be assisted in receiving the guests by the auxiliary president, Mrs. Donald McAdie. As this tea is one of the outstanding functions of the early fall season, it is hoped that everyone interested in the work that is being done on behalf of the boys and young men of the city, will make a point of being present.

Archie McKinnon, track and field coach for Canadian representatives at the Olympic Games, before a bumper gathering of the First United Young People's Society, when they held their first annual "Olympic" in the Sunday School Hall.

The meeting opened with a song led by Elton Jones, followed by duets by the Misses Jean Wilson and Laurette McCall. Six new members were admitted into the society.

Following Mr. McKinnon's fine talk, the members were rationed off into groups, representing various countries at an Olympiad. The outcome saw the Americans taking the honors with the greatest total of points.

Next Monday evening Claude L. Harrison will be the guest speaker and all members are urged to be present.

Brides-to-be Advised To Study Fiancee's Reactions

Washington, Sept. 22.—A mother's plea for an operation that might save her baby's life, and the father's demand that the malformed infant be allowed to die a "mercy death" today confronted physicians at the Danish-American Hospital.

Mrs. Eva Tafel, twenty-two, mother of the baby boy and of a normal and healthy daughter two and a half years old, pleaded "I want him." Her husband, Julian, a garage mechanic, replied: "It would be a sin to allow the poor child to live. He would probably be bedridden for life, and when he came to understand would curse us for allowing him to live."

The baby, named Julian Jr., weighed eight pounds, thirteen and one-half ounces at birth last Thursday. Doctors discovered a malformation of the intestinal tract—absence of a portion of the descending colon, and an abnormal condition of the bladder.

Dr. Louis K. Eastman, chief of the hospital staff, saw no chance for the infant's survival without an operation. Even if an operation were performed, he said, the boy probably "always will be a care."

"The infant is literally starved to death, since the malformation makes it impossible for him to absorb nourishment," he said.

Mrs. Shadburn said her sister, who collapsed on a street Friday night, died from what physicians said was peritonitis, first adopted the masculine attire and name in 1898.

She stowed away on a vessel going to the Philippines, where she worked as a free lance newspaper correspondent and "male" Red Cross aide during the insurrection.

Royal Mother Visits Sick Son

She rushed to hospital after a hurried trip from Europe.

Conference Is Held By C.G.I.T.

Leaders' Council Met At Home Of Mrs. D. M. McCall

The fourth annual conference of the C.G.I.T. Leaders' Council of Greater Victoria was held recently when a large group of C.G.I.T. leaders and other representatives from the various city churches journeyed out to the lovely summer home of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. McCall, Rev. J. S. A. Bastin, Rev. Father Scheelen and Mr. H. E. Tanner also spoke. After the banquet an informal musical programme included songs by Miss J. Charlebois and Miss F. Spencer, with Miss G. Spencer at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turgoose of Saanichton, pioneers of the district, who are coming to reside in Victoria, were guests of honor at a farewell banquet held at the Log Cabin, Saanichton, on Saturday evening. About eighty-five old friends and neighbors attended the affair, and subscribed to the handsome china dinner service presented to them as a farewell gift.

Mr. G. Michell was master of ceremonies and read an address signed by all those present, which accompanied the gift. Mr. Turgoose acknowledged the kindness on behalf of his wife and family. Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., Councillor L. C. Hagen, Rev. J. S. A. Bastin, Rev. Father Scheelen and Mr. H. E. Tanner also spoke. After the banquet an informal musical programme included songs by Miss J. Charlebois and Miss F. Spencer, with Miss G. Spencer at the piano.

Mr. Turgoose was born on his farm sixty-seven years ago, and was the first subscriber to have a telephone in the district. He is the first vice-president of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society and a school trustee for Saanichton. Mrs. Turgoose is also an active worker for the Agricultural Society, the Pioneer Society, and a valued member of the South Saanich W.A.

Miss Lilian Parfitt, chairman of the Girls' Leaders' Council, opened the morning session with a devotional service, after which Miss Anne Fountain, B.A., girls' work secretary for the province, led discussions on "The Work of the Church," "Leadership," and "The Girl," stressing the point that as C.G.I.T. leaders and Sunday school workers, it was the special job of the leader to lead the girl into a deeper understanding of God through the channels of Bible study, worship, prayer, and personal discussions. Informal discussions took place at the afternoon session, and many problems were solved, also missionary education was discussed and some very interesting projects were outlined.

During the supper hour votes of thanks and appreciation were extended to Miss Fountain, and also to the hostess, Miss McCall. A pleasing presentation also took place when Mrs. Bewell was presented with a silver relish dish. Miss Parfitt made the presentation, and on behalf of the council extended the congratulations to Mrs. Bewell upon her recent marriage.

After a delightful fellowship around the fireside, the closing message to the conference was given by Miss Fountain, based on the verse "My Soul Do Magnify the Lord." In her challenging talk she stressed the thought that the mark of our high calling is that we might magnify the Lord to the girls whom we lead, and that our teaching, our leadership, might magnify His purpose to.

The producers met in a long session last night.

Although they declined to discuss the topic of the meeting, movie colony reports said it was concerned with the labor situation among the actors.

Kenneth Thomson, president of the Guild, recently became a vice-president of the California Federation of Labor. Several days ago he reported that seventeen well-known movie actors had contributed $1,000 to the strikers' fund in the Salinas, Calif., lettuce dispute.

His report included the names of Cary Cooper, Eddie Cantor, Fredric March, Boris Karloff, Robert Montgomery, Herbert Marshall and James Cagney.

These men, and virtually all the others in the Guild are under contract at various studios.

MAN PROVES TO BE WOMAN

San Francisco, Sept. 22.—After thirty-nine years of masquerading as a man, Jack Bee Garland was mourned by amazed friends today as a woman, whose true sex was disclosed after death.

The real name of the retiring sixty-seven-year-old, noted for aiding the needy, was Miss Elvira Virginia McGuire, her sister said.

It has always been bone of contention—that this masquerader of Elvira's," said the sister, Mrs. George Shadburn, sixty-nine-year-old writer and social voice worker. "Her insistence on retaining men's clothing always filled me with wonder."

Mrs. Shadburn said her sister, who died from a heart attack on a street Friday night, was a bad physician and was peritonitis, first adopted the masculine attire and name in 1898.

She stowed away on a vessel going to the Philippines, where she worked as a free lance newspaper correspondent and "male" Red Cross aide during the insurrection.

Raeburn, who wants Ruthie pass and then comes word that he has been killed in a motorboat accident.

Both Ruthie and Edward, young author, and EDWARD VAN SCIVER wealthy and socially prominent. She is in love with him because of his beauty—KAT CHILLINGFORD.

Boots gets a job in a book store and soon begins to live in order to help pay her debts. Edward, however, reluctantly urges her to marry him and finally she agrees. On Christmas Day they go for a walk in the fog. Edward is badly hurt saving her from a reckless driver.

Mrs. Raeburn learns she has a winning ticket in a lottery. She plans to take her husband to California.

NOW ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV

Veronica Kerrigan twitted a fresh pillow-slip in place and glanced down the hall in the direction of the hospital sunroom from whose open doors echoed gouts of merriment. Young Mr. Van Sciver's wheel chair was established there, cheek by jowl with Boston ferns and the old lady in 316, who was convalescing from a gall bladder operation and who enjoyed a good story when she heard one.

Veronica was on duty now, taking care of Mr. Van Sciver. His day nurse, Elsie Goff, had been called home by the illness of her father—providentially, Veronica thought. She had never had a patient like so much as Mr. Van Sciver. Good-looking, rich, considerate, a perfect gentleman, she said to herself, if ever there was one.

Just why that fiancee of his, that blond girl from Larchmont, didn't sing for joy because she'd been so lucky as to snag him, Veronica simply did not understand. She had a small metal image of the saint strung around her neck this very moment, on a thin silver chain. And all she'd ever got for it (up to date) was the attention of Will Schulte, who ran a garage in New Martin and wasn't half bad if you overlooked his grimy fingernails.

Miss Raeburn (if you asked Miss Kerrigan who she was, although nobody would) was pretty keen on that dark chap who ran her up to the hospital in his ratty little roadster. Mr. Van Sciver had a long lean greyhound of a car. Maybe Will wouldn't like to get his fingers on it, some day! She'd told him about it and he'd been interested. It was about all he ever was interested in—gadgets and derrentials and spark plugs and such stuff! Hardly ever read a book and didn't know Joan Crawford from Norma Shearer. Miss Kerrigan harbored the secret conviction that she, herself, was a discreet combination of the two. She and Mr. Van Sciver talked about movies a lot. He liked so many of the pictures she did. Wasn't that funny?

He'd be going home soon and she'd miss him. His chauffeur had driven up that very afternoon in the long car and taken away the muscle box and about a ton of personal equipment his mother had sent up before she left for Florida. Miss Kerrigan sighed, considering an existence in which town houses, foreign motors and cars were from High Society largely. How nice it must be to be rich! Not nice that she liked Mr. Van Sciver because of his money—from it. If he hadn't a penny he'd still be the dearest boy in the world.

She flushed because the floor head, standing in the doorway and smiling indulgently, seemed to be reading her very thoughts. The Head was a sculptured beauty who had no use for men at all, although she had been known to waste fifteen minutes chatting to Edward Van Sciver when there were no temperatures to take, nor patients' families to smooth down.

"Your patient wants to come back," she said.

Miss Kerrigan fairly flew down the hall. Edward was walking now, slowly and with difficulty. He had a cane but it was little Miss Kerrigan who peeped prettily underneath his arm on the left side. It was Miss Kerrigan who steered him over the matting in the matting.

"You did that beautifully, just bee-yoo-tifully," she caroled.

"Oh, I'm getting there all right, all right."

Her heart went pit-a-pat when he looked down at her like that.

"What's for supper?"

She handed him the menu. New Hospital was proud of its methods. As up to date—more so than I am proud of saying, than any of the city institutions.

Edward groaned, contemplating the list. "Same old groceries," he said.

"Roast lamb. Roast beef. Chicken fricassee."

"There are lamb chops, too," urged Miss Kerrigan in her maternal cooing voice. "If they're not sizzling I'll pep your up in the diet kitchen."

"Will you do that?" He gave her hand, with its firm, competent fingers, a little squeeze. "There's a good girl."

As she fluttered down the hall she treasured the thought of that impulsive little gesture. Probably it didn't mean a thing, though. He was just a great big kid . . .

When Boots came to the next apartment and was alone, Denis hadn't telephoned. She had come down on the bus.

She saw the instant she met Edward's eyes that she need tell him.

He had the papers strown all over his bed. He grinned broadly.

"Some luck eh? Some fun!"

"Isn't it too marvelous?" She leaned over his shoulder, staring down at the picture of her mother above the headline.

Suburban Matron Wins Prize in Charity Sweepstakes."

"Never got such a kick out of anything in my life," he told her.

"Olaf brought the papers up with supper and you could have knocked me over with a breath when I read the news. I've been rooting for your mother ever since."

Miss Kerrigan, frisking in on her new white shoes with their discreet rubber heels, gave Boots a frosty smile. She, too, had read the story. Some folks have everything, she told herself, indignantly . . .

"Did Dimby call you?"

Boots felt her heart beat faster at the mention of his name. "No, he didn't. Why?"

"Oh, he's got sand in his shoes again, wants to light out. This time it's to be a tramp steamer for the West Indies or some place. He ran in at noontime. He's packing his stuff. Says he's going stale and can't write."

There was a lump of ice where Boots' heart had been. She managed to say naturally enough, "I guess he never stays in one place for long. But how about Kay Chillingford? I thought he was waiting around for her to come back?"

"Oh, that's all off—has been for weeks," Edward told her. "They hadn't been hitting it off so well when she left and she'd written him a lot of sour letters. Dimby said they'd about decided to call it a day. She's marrying some dusty old member of parliament or something. Lady Swizz-Bang." He chuckled.

So all the time she had chaffed him about Kay he knew this and hadn't told her. Why?

Edward touched her face lightly with a well-manicured forefinger. "We'll miss the old kid, won't we? He's a good guy."

"Oh, terribly!" She tried to be casual, but the effort did not come off as well as she'd planned.

"Well, what about the folks—have they made any plans?" I suppose they're all of a dither?"

Boots smiled, remembering. "Mother is. She says she's going to rent the house for whatever she can get and pack off to California."

She has a cousin in Palo Alto. She's already written to ask them about finding her a small house. Miss Florida may go with them. Father's attitude is sunny. He's never thought another had any business sense and of course this is a freak thing but he is treating her with the greatest respect. She's the wizard of the family now. They've been simply wild, though, with newspaper people and tabloid photographers swarming all over the place."

"Fun!" Edward gloats, grinning.

"Well, it's all right—for a while," he conceded, "but I'll be glad when things settle back to normal."

"Then you and I start out on our travels," he mused.

"Yes." She looked at him with an odd pathos.

"You're walking well now, Edward?"

Miss Houghton said you'd leave this week."

"Yep. Got the old pep back."

"Well, then . . ." she hesitated. "We may as well go ahead with our plans . . ."

"Sure, you want to now?"

She stared at him, frankly puzzled.

"Why, Edward, what do you mean?"

His big laugh was tinged with embarrassment. "I thought maybe you wouldn't want to string along with me now."

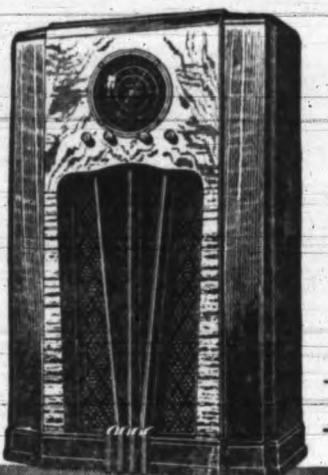

"Nonsense!" She couldn't accept this loophole, just when he was helpless and needed her.

On the threshold Miss Veronic Kerrigan, listening, froze to attention.

Al Smith Will Fight New Deal

New York, Sept. 22.—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith will address a mass meeting at Carnegie Hall October 1 under the auspices of the Independent Coalition of American Women, which is working to defeat the United States New Deal. It will be Mr. Smith's first speech in the campaign.

Strong Senior Rugby Fifteens For Coming Campaign

MANY PLAYERS SHOULD RESULT IN FINE LEAGUE

With Four-team Circuit Officials Look Forward to Great Season

Fight Tonight Will Be On Air

Tonight's fifteen-round fight at Philadelphia between Joe Louis and Al Ettore will be broadcast over the blue network of the National Broadcasting System starting at 6:45 o'clock. Victorians can listen to the programme over station KJR, Seattle.

Bays Announce Player Roster

Preliminary player skirmishes marked Victoria's preparations for the 1936-1937 senior rugby wars this week as clubs lined up men for the coming season. With the exception of the Navy, which closes the ranks of its rugby machine to outsiders, the remaining prospective teams all appeared involved in the dicker for outstanding performers. With the Fifth Brigade on the block, the trading was expected to be exceptionally sharp.

A RECENTLY-compiled list of the leading money-winning horses at mainland tracks this season is interesting now that the ponies are running at the Willows. It also gives an idea how the money paid out in purses circulates around.

Major Austin Taylor's mighty handicap star, Indian Broom, is easily the leader, of course, for he won the two big $5,000 events in Vancouver. His earnings for the season in the province are placed at $8,090. The Taylor barn acquired quite a lot of other purses as well, among them leading winners being: Bye Low, $2,280; Torlee, $1,190; Brass Bottle, the unbeaten two-year-old, $975; and Bonny Grafton, $975.

Lieutenant-Governor Hamber's two imported mares, Orangery and Gold streak II returned him $2,162 and $1,785 respectively, the former having six wins and the latter four.

Thirty-eight horses won $900 or more during the season and seven British Columbia-bred horses were among them. Seventeen were Canadian breeds, which is some indication of the improving standard of breeding in these parts.

The good springer Stanstill topped the B.C.-breds with $1,390. Next was Frank-Beban's Big Pine at $1,025. Lady Goldstream won $1,020 and a like amount was captured by Boy of Mine, the champion hurdler.

The big Chilliwick horse, Shasta Dream, winner of eight out of ten starts, earned $2,380.

When it comes to keeping the money at home B.C. runners did well and twenty-two out of the leading thirty-eight money-winners were owned by British Columbians.

The big Chilliwick horse, Shasta Dream, winner of eight out of ten starts, earned $2,380.

That old saying, "To the winner goes the spoils," does not hold true in golf and many other branches of sport.

Freddie Haas of New Orleans, winner of the 1936 Canadian amateur championship, and strong contender for last year's United States amateur crown, is rated one of the foremost players in the United States — but he failed to land a place on the Walker Cup team. Why? Well, it is claimed by many critics that Freddie is silly-dallying much too long over the playing of each golf shot. And that is probably the reason why Frank Dool, former Hand star and winner of many western, Pacific Northwest, and Oregon State titles, never received Walker Cup recognition.

Cyril Walker, 1934 United States open champion, could not get a "corporal's guard" out to see him in an exhibition match when he held the title because of the small-like manner in which he played the game. No color.

How about Bobby Jones? He has color that is everlasting! And this was proven to the greatest degree a short time ago when the "Grand Slam" artist of 1930 won in a small party which played the Sunnyside, Glenelg, and St. Andrews courses on the way to the Olympic Games in Berlin. On arrival at famous St. Andrews, Bobby wanted, "a quiet game." But when he stepped on the first tee, he was met by a gallery of close to 4,000 admirers, thus proving that his popularity in the Old Country remains undimmed after the passing of six years. That is proof that his "color" is everlasting.

Incidentally, he went out in 32, equaling his lowest nine holes at St. Andrews.

NAVY PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Out at the Naval Barracks the sailors are in the happy position of having a new batch of players from which to draw to fill up holes in the team which carried their colors last year.

Bruce Robinson or Booth, the latter of whom played senior B last season, will be available for fullback duty, while in the backfield will be Hibbert, W. Smith and possibly Fred Freeman and Stubbs. As the nucleus of a strong pack the bluejackets have Corbin, Hook, McRae and Barker. Organization will start at the barracks this week in preparation for the season opener.

With all indications pointing to a four team league, minus the Garrison and the Fifth Brigade, there should be no dearth of players. How the teams will stack up will depend a great deal on the manner in which they are coached.

Under any circumstances there should be enough material on hand to produce a smart rep fifteen when the call goes out to players to form Victoria's squad against Varsity, Vancouver and the Palo Alto All-Blacks.

CLEVELAND WINS

Cleveland, Sept. 22.—The American League Cleveland Indians crushed the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League, beneath an 11 to 2 score in an exhibition game here yesterday. Bauer and Welch hurled for Pittsburgh, while Hudlin went the route for Cleveland.

Germany, which has lately been taking half the world's annual supply of whale blubber, is building up a whaling industry of its own to get fats and oil.

Mrs. Mulqueen Is Medalist

Heads Field in Canadian Women's Close Golf Play With an 80

Pointe Claire, Que., Sept. 22.— Quebec's supremacy in Canada's feminine golfing field — partly demonstrated by the triumphs of Montreal's Mrs. A. B. Darling in the open tourney — was threatened today by a strong tide of Ontarians in the initial round of match play for the Canadian women's close golf championship.

Out of a field of ninety-one competitors who teed off yesterday at Beaconsfield course in search of the title vacated by Mrs. Roy Horne, Tobin, nine Ontario golfers gained entry to the list of thirty-two qualifiers. Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen, Toronto, led the way, gaining the qualifying medal with a round of 80, five over par.

Quebec, with its host of Montrealers, placed fifteen women in the tourney's first round. Western Canada had five players in there and the Maritime provinces two. The other qualifier was Mrs. W. F. Hutchison, St. John's, Nfld.

Western Canada, had two representatives drawn together and either K. Duff-Stuart, Vancouver, or pretty Heather Leslie, Winnipeg, will be eliminated in this first match play round.

Mrs. Darling, trying for a sweep of the titles — a feat accomplished only twice and both times by Ada Mackenzie of Toronto — shared the runner-up position yesterday with red-haired Margery Kirkham, another Montrealer and the vanquished in the open final. They failed to catch the Toronto woman by one stroke, carding 81s.

Behind them came the oft-time champion, Miss Mackenzie, bracketed at 82 with Mrs. R. Gouinlock, Toronto, and Mrs. E. D. Glassco, Montreal.

VICTORIA IS TURNED DOWN

St. Saviours Given Fourth Birth in InterCity Football League

Vancouver, Sept. 22.—St. Saviour's soccer squad of Vancouver has been chosen as the fourth team in the InterCity Football League for this season, John Richardson, secretary of the British Columbia Football Commission, announced today.

The other three teams, announced previously, are Nanaimo, New Westminster Royals and North Shore United.

It has not yet been decided how the teams will line up for the opening date, October 3. Richardson said.

The application of Victoria United for the fourth position in the InterCity League was turned down at last night's meeting of the commission.

An all-star team from Victoria will play against all-star teams from Victoria and Nanaimo, and in a regular schedule of home and home games for an interleague trophy, the commission secretary said.

Rangers end 86 Andrews, Vancouver team who previously played in the InterCity League, will perform in the Vancouver and District League this season.

Other applications for this league have been received from Varsity, ex-Varsity, Twigg Island, Kerrisdale, L.X.L. Service Taxi, St. Regis and Johnstones.

VICTORY IN DEFEAT

Strange as it seems, the last battle of the Civil War was fought after the surrender of Lee and the subsequent assassination of Lincoln.

Refusing to forsake the Southern cause, though the Confederate government had completely collapsed, a large force of cavalry and artillery under the leadership of Kirby Smith held out against Union forces in Texas.

Their final stand began on the evening of May 11, 1865, when Union troops successfully attacked the Confederate camp at Palmetto Ranch, near Brazos, Texas. Unsupported by reinforcements and faced with a superior number of men, the Union forces were unable to maintain their position and on May 13 were forced to withdraw in disastrous retreat, leaving heavy losses in dead and captured men. This marked the last engagement of the Civil War for, though victorious, in their last fight, the Confederate force at last realized the odds against them were too great to withstand and they disbanded.

Torchy Peden Is Forced Out Of London Six-day Race

UNABLE TO FIND PARTNER; DOUG IS STILL RIDING

Latter and Teammate LePage Are Eight Laps Behind Leaders

KILIAN-VOPEL STILL ON TOP

Canadian Press

London, Sept. 22.—William "Torchy" Peden, Victoria, was out of the six-day bike race at Wembley today, while his younger brother, Douglas, and Henry LePage, Montreal, pedalled along eight laps behind the leaders.

The German team of Kilian and Vopel led at noon with 108 points. Second came the Belgian team of Aerts and Buysse, with 94, two laps behind. They had 153 points.

Doug Peden and LePage had twenty-five points. Young Peden is a newcomer to pro ranks, having played last month on Canada's Olympic basketball team.

"Torchy" had to retire from the grind because he was unable to find a partner. His original partner, Southall, was involved in a spill soon after the race started, and forced to the sidelines.

Ping-pong Club At High School

Over sixty table tennis enthusiasts attended a meeting at the Victoria High School yesterday to arrange for the season's programme.

It was voted to form a table tennis club similar to that of last season, and a small membership fee will be charged in order to buy bats and balls. The Students' Council of the Victoria High School will provide tables and nets.

A committee to attend to the regulation of equipment and the planning of tournaments was elected as follows: Harry Morrison, Nardin Young, Norman Greensmith, Alex Walker, Bill Cotton, Henry Bennett, Vincent Martin, Dawson, Fields, Vincent Casson and Alec Merriman.

Paul Revere was a silversmith and copper worker, and the copper sheathing for the frigate Constitution was supplied by his shop.

ATHLETES ARE DINNER GUESTS

Chamainus Baseball and Basketball Teams Extended Banquet

On Friday evening last at the Green Lantern Hotel, Chamainus, the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crucil, were hosts at a banquet in honor of the Green Lantern team, Chamainus baseball league champions. The basketball team was also present.

The dining-room was decorated in green, yellow and blue, and gold-colored gladioli centred the table. The following was served to the dinner:

Frank Crucil, Clare Johns, Ken McGladrey, Andy Laidlaw, Geo. McLeod, Tommy Alister, Gus Crucil, Sige Shillito, Wally Laidlaw, Billy Phillips, Babe Work, Bert Beasley, Roy Simmons (basketball coach), Bill Hagg, Gerald Smith, Hugo Hagg, Bill Hagg, Geo. McGladrey and Joe Hocevar.

The occasion was also a farewell dinner for Tommy Alister, one of the popular ball players who is leaving for Toronto to continue his education.

On behalf of the boys, Clare Johns presented him with a pen and pencil set as a token of remembrance of his good fellowship, and wished him every success.

The team captain, Hugo Hagg, presented Mrs. Crucil with a beautiful bouquet of asters and a box of candy, for which she thanked the boys. With compliments from Mr. Crucil, a photo of the team was given each player.

Last a dance was held in Clarke's Hall, where a very large crowd enjoyed a social evening. Wm. Alister presented the baseball cup to the boys.

A committee to attend to the regulation of equipment and the planning of tournaments was elected as follows:

Harry Morrison, Nardin Young, Norman Greensmith, Alex Walker, Bill Cotton, Henry Bennett, Vincent Martin, Dawson, Fields, Vincent Casson and Alec Merriman.

HEARING OF EXTRADITION

CASE ON HERE

Hearing of extradition proceedings against William Evans, Los Angeles, held in the city lockup at the request of California police in connection with a charge of child stealing, was set by Judge J. C. McIntosh for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, when Evans appeared before him in County Court this morning.

C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, spoke for the short adjournment, saying Evans was without legal counsel at the time.

Evans expressed the wish to proceed today.

Charged After Serious Crash

JOYCE W. COLLINS HELD FOR COMMON DANGER; RONALD CRUCKSHANKS INJURED

Joyce W. Collins, 939 Fullerton Road, was charged this morning with driving to the common danger, following an accident yesterday evening in which Ronald Cruckshanks, 332 Simcoe Street, was critically injured.

According to police, the car driven by Collins, in which Cruckshanks and F. C. Hurry, 886 Front Street, were passengers, ran up a telephone guy wire and turned over. The accident happened at the corner of Springfield Road and Wilson Street shortly before midnight.

In the City Police Court this morning Collins was remanded until tomorrow without plea, at the request of G. L. Harrison, prosecutor, who said he wished to have a report on Cruckshanks' condition. Ball was set at $500.

Collins and Hurry were reported unharmed in the accident. The top of the car and upholstery were badly damaged.

At the Jubilee Hospital today Cruckshanks was reported improved after a fairly comfortable night. He is suffering from concussion and is being attended by Dr. W. J. Lennox.

"As a boy, my ambition was to be a parson," Alderman Andrew McGavin, chairman of the city's water board said in reply to a question as to his early aspirations.

"I earned my first money selling papers on the streets of Glasgow," he said.

The picture of Alderman McGavin was taken when he was a boy in Scotland.

How did he make his start in public life?

"Well, it's quite a story," replies the alderman. "At one time one of Victoria's papers voiced the rumor that Andy McGavin was going to run for the police commission. A commissioner heard about it and said McGavin didn't have a snowball's chance in hell of being elected. There's another story about it, too, that I'm not going to get into."

"What would I do if I had my life to live over again? I'd still want to be a parson."

It was reported by Vivian Shoemaker, boys' work secretary, there had been 144 sessions, including all sporting activities, with a total of 2,039 members participating.

The physical education report, presented by E. Harrison, showed that there were 334 sessions with a total attendance of 4,509. In presenting his report he referred to the appointment of Archie McKinnon, physical director, as track and field coach of the Canadian Olympic squad. Mr. McKinnon is back from Berlin and will resume his work at the "Y" as head of the physical department.

The Y.M.C.A. booth at the fair was mentioned in connection with the first aid those in charge had given to many at the exhibition.

It was reported a small profit had been realized on the summer camp at Glens Lake in July. Eighty-five boys attended.

The suggestion was made that next year a longer camping period be held, with at least two sessions of camp during the summer. One period would be for boys under twelve and the other for kids over twelve. It was reported central dining accommodations were needed urgently, in addition to extra boats and tools.

The Metropolitan United Church was granted the use of the gymnasium and swimming pool on Saturday afternoons and the badminton hall on Tuesday evenings during the summer.

The financial report was given by J. O. Cameron, the boys' work report by J. V. Johnson and the membership report by E. G. Rosebottom. The education summary was presented by D. A. M. Macneil and the house committee report was given by J. Bennett.

It was decided that the annual committee meeting would be held on Sunday with the members as guests of Mrs. W. A. Jameson at her home at Sooke.

A meeting of the captains in connection with the forthcoming membership campaign will be held at the "Y" on Thursday at 5 o'clock.

ROWELL MAY BE CHIEF JUSTICE

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 22.—Hon. Newton W. Rowell, K.C., Toronto, conferred with Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Justice Minister, today, giving strength to the rumor that he would be appointed Chief Justice of Ontario, successor to Sir William Mulock, who resigned early in the summer. At a cabinet meeting, scheduled for tomorrow, it is expected this and several other judicial vacancies will be filled.

ROBERT RUTLEDGE

There passed away last night at St. Joseph's Hospital, Robert Rutledge, age eighty-four years, his late residence being 141 Robertson Street.

Mr. Rutledge, who was born in Ireland, resided in the Yukon for many years, where he was very well known.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Canon A. E. de Nutte will officiate and the remains will be laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

RUSSIA MAKES
CENSUS PLANS

Moscow, Sept. 22.—Russia will try to count all its inhabitants in one day.

There are 1,200,000 registrars already being trained by 120,000 instructors for the third All-Union census, to be taken January 6, 1937.

Experts believe the population will exceed 175,000,000, still far short of Russia's pre-war population.

POISON DRANK
AT MEETING

Woman in Spectacular Incident at F. Knox Gathering in Los Angeles

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Sept. 22.—A woman arose in the midst of a campaign speech of Col. Frank Knox, Republican Vice-presidential nominee, yesterday evening, called him a liar and drank from a bottle of poison antiseptic.

At the police receiving hospital later, she said she was Mabel West, thirty-nine, a tourist from Philadelphia passing through Los Angeles. Hospital attendants said she would recover.

Before her outbreak, Col. Knox was saying:

"The dictator business has been a very successful business. The American people would not stand for it—business men would not stand for it—farmers would not stand for it—the Supreme Court would not stand for it."

The woman jumped up and cried: "You're a liar. You're a liar!" She drank from a two-ounce bottle and hurled it down.

"I don't know why I did it," she told detectives. "I must have become panic-stricken."

PUBLISHER IN LONDON JAILED

A. Leese of "The Fascist" Given Six Months; Printer Fined

Jewish Telegraph Agency
London, Sept. 22.—Arnold Leese, publisher of The Fascist, organ of the Imperial Fascist League, yesterday was sentenced to six months in prison for publishing in the July 4 issue of the weekly a charge that Jews practice ritual murder. The publication's printer, Walter Whitehead, was fined £20 on the same charge.

A Jury convicted Leese and Whitehead on the basis of two counts in the indictment charging the defendants with "conspiring together to print and publish The Fascist, containing divers libelous, scandalous statements about His Majesty's subjects of the Jewish faith" and of "creating public mischief by publication of such statements."

The Jury acquitted the defendants of other counts in the indictment, charging them with intent to provoke ill-will, hostility, discontent and disaffection between British Jews and non-Jews.

Man Is Facing Trial On Bonds

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 22.—Fred Somers of New Westminster today stood remanded after three charges of retaining stolen bonds totaling $32,500 had been read against him in police court yesterday.

Magistrate Wood adjourned the case after Crown witnesses had completed their testimony.

Somers is alleged to have retained stolen bonds which had been fleeced from three prairie visitors, J. B. Robichaud, S. Pearce and Walter Thorne, by alleged "confidence" men—here during the last four years.

The bonds, police allege, were then turned over to Somers by the "confidence" men for re-sale.

Robichaud, it is alleged, was fleeced of $10,000 in bonds in a "get-rich-quick" scheme in 1932 and three years later Pearce lost $4,500 in bonds with the same scheme. Walter Thorne is alleged to have been the latest victim of the "confidence" men, losing $14,000 in bonds last October.

In New Picture at the Dominion

A scene from "Yours for the Asking," which is the title of the feature picture now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

FINE CAST AT THE DOMINION

Deolores Costello and George Raft Head Cast in "Yours For the Asking"

Fast-moving comedy, put over by some of the screen's best character actors, splices the romantic story of "Yours for the Asking." George Raft and Deolores Costello's picture which opened today at the Dominion Theatre. Members of the excellent cast supporting the stars include Ida Lupino, Reginald Owen, Richard "Skeets" Gallagher and Edgar Kennedy.

Raft, outstanding of filmdom's "polished hard guys," appears as a big-time gambling-house proprietor who arranges with a society girl, Miss Costello, to set up an ultra-swank gambling layout in Miss Costello's mansion, which has been plastered with mortgages since the death of her banker father.

Miss Costello aids him in giving the place a society atmosphere, and in drawing the wealthy class with which she has always associated. The proceedings are ribald, and everybody is supposed, but not of Raft's side.

They are afraid the book is failing for the lovely socialite.

To check the romance, they arrange with Ida Lupino, beautiful adventures, a scheme by which she is to win Raft, then jilt him. She poses as an upper-crust, so that Raft will be disillusioned about society in general.

Smart Picture
Will Play Here

"Yours for the Asking" is the title of the daring picture which comes to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow with the attractive co-starring team of Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor.

The play of human emotions under tremendous strain has seldom been more powerfully drawn on the screen.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Director Scott R. Beal turned back the pages of history when he filmed certain street scenes for "Straight From the Heart," the romantic Universal drama which is now showing at the Columbia Theatre. He followed the sun, using natural rather than artificial lighting for the scenes.

In the old silent days movie companies working outside continually moved to keep in the bright sunlight. For "Straight From the Heart" Beal employed this method to obtain certain striking lighting effects.

OAK BAY THEATRE

"Barbary Coast" lives again in all its stark, rowdy realism in Samuel Goldwyn's production of that title which is at the Oak Bay Theatre today and tomorrow. "Barbary Coast" offers Miriam Hopkins one of her greatest roles as Swan, a beautiful girl who invades this gold-mad city of lawless men. Also on the same bill is seen "The Widow From Monte Carlo," starring Dolores Del Rio.

When the people of Tumbal howled for Orando's blood, Tarzan raised his hand. "I am Musimo, the spirit," he pronounced majestically. "I can fight alone." He turned toward Orando. "What is this accusation against you? What is a Leopard Man? Speak, warrior!"

"Our chief place is hidden in the jungle, but there are secret members in every village who kill us if we do not give. Sometimes they kill only to make us afraid. We know they kill them for the skin of the leopard and strike fine meat for their food."

"No one of us knows who among us are the terrible Leopard Men!" White Orando spoke. Sibito hurried among the warriors, whispering into the ear of each. "Now he cries when they kill them for the skin of the leopard and strike fine meat for their food."

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I would like to ask the philandering husbands these questions: First. Which woman in your heart do you respect most—your wife, even though she has grown middle-aged and lost her beauty, even though in living with her you see all her faults and shortcomings, but who has stood by you shoulder to shoulder in the battle of life; who has made of her shoulders a ladder for you to climb up on, and who, if need be, would sacrifice her life for you and your children; or the "other woman," whose kisses are bought and who would be the first one to forsake you if you should lose your money or get sick and be unable to give her good times?

Second. Who is the woman who has helped you—the wife who has made friends for you, who has made a place in society for you, who has encouraged you to make the most of yourself and fired your ambition, who has made you believe in yourself; or the "other woman," who has pulled you down who has destroyed your self-respect, sullied your reputation, killed the reverence in which your children held you and who is wrecking your home and family?

Third. Which do you want most? To be honest, honorable, a man who has the respect of all who know him; who can look his wife, his children, his employer, the whole wide world in the face knowing that he has nothing of which to be ashamed; or do you want a scoundrel, a swindler, a crook—a man who has brought humiliation upon his wife and children and who is an object of blind derision to other men?

Fourth. What do you want in your old age? Do you want a faithful wife beside whom affection has stood the test of time; who has helped you lay by a competence for your last days? Do you want your children to look up to you as a superstar and pass on their veneration to their own children? Or do you want a hidden love nest and the kisses of the "other woman," which have long grown cold and stale? Do you want the knowledge that you have played the fool in giving up all that was fine and true and dear for a woman who has dragged you down to her own level; who has killed your self-respect, widowed your wife, orphaned your children and whom you do not even trust?

These are questions which I wish every philandering husband would ask himself. Maybe it would save some of them from bitter remorse and from breaking their wives' hearts.

A WIFE—Indeed it would, for it is not only the woman who pays and pays and pays for paving the straight and narrow road for the primrose path. No man comes out of it unscathed, either. Our sympathy always goes out to the wife of an unfaithful husband, but I often think that the husband is even more to be pitied than she is because he throws away so much for so little. In the end his punishment is so great, as the punishment of the fool always is.

No doubt it tickles a man's vanity to think that he is a devil among the women, even though he is middle-aged and married. No doubt there is a thrill in stolen kisses that the domestic brand does not possess. No doubt there is more allure in an under-the-rose apartment than there is in going to a home on Main Street. But there is no man so besotted with vanity that in his soul he does not know when there is a price tag on illicit kisses and endearments and that he has to pay for this welcome with good times and diamond bracelets.

And he knows that it does no man's rating at the bank any good to be known as a philanderer, and that in breaking up his home and losing his wife and children he is throwing away the most worth-while things in life, yet he does it for the sake of a few silly affairs with women for whom he really cares nothing. He is the living exponent of the fool being wedded to his folly.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a woman of twenty-five; been making my own living for several years; very ambitious and energetic. I have been going with a man who is twenty-eight. He is attractive and I suppose I am in love with him, but he is not ambitious, has never made more than a mere living for himself. Considering my ambition and surplus energy, do you think that I can risk depending on this type of man for my living and happiness? He tells me continually that he could get somewhere in the world with me for an inspiration, but I am inclined to be doubtful.

HAZEL

Answer—You are well to be doubtful, Hazel, for if a man hasn't enough energy and initiative to do things for himself, he will never do them for any woman.

Every drunkard tells the woman he is in love with that if she will marry him he will never thirst for a highball again. Every gambler assures his sweetheart that he had her little white hand in his would never let go for cards again. Every lazy ne'er-do-well persuades the girl he wants to marry that he only needs her to galvanize him into action and make him a go-getter. And the trouble is that because girls can believe anything that they want to believe, they fall for this line or hooey and marry their sots and gamblers and lazy-bones, only to find out that marriage isn't a curative agent and that the man who drank before marriage drinks afterward, that the gambler still gambles and the lazy man still sits down on the do-nothing stool.

I think no marriage is more unfortunate than that between an energetic, ambitious woman and that of a slothful, unambitious man because the wife is always trying to prod the husband into action and the husband always balks and always regards his wife as a slave-driver, and comes to hate her for it. If you want a husband who is going to get somewhere in the world, pick out one who has already started under his own motive power.

DEAR MISS DIX—What do you think of girls who give presents for no reason at all? There is a girl who is always making me presents that I don't want and she tells people that we are going "steady," which isn't true. I have my career ahead of me and am passing up girls for a long time. How can I get rid of this girl without hurting her feelings?

JACK

Answer—She is trying to get you by putting you under obligation to her. If you don't want to get caught, send her presents back to her. You will have to be firm with that kind of girl and not consider her feelings.

Uncle Wiggily And Bunty's Surprise

sudden, Uncle Wiggily and Bunty got up on the old stools and Mr. Longears said: DRAGONS IN GARDEN

"Come with me, Bunty, and I'll give you a surprise. I'll show you the dragons. They're right here in my garden."

"Dragons here in the garden?" exclaimed Bunty. "I will be surprised! Oh, I can hardly wait!"

"What did he say he was going to show her?" whispered the Fox.

"No matter what he said, Bunty, get them and get them in a moment. Hurry!"

The two Bad Chaps hurried after Uncle Wiggily, who was now running behind the bushes. All of a sudden Mr. Longears stopped and, pointing, said to Bunty:

"There are the dragons. A lot of them, yellow and pink and red and purple. See?"

"Oh, my goodness! Come on! Run away fast!" cried the Fox to the Bob Cat. "We have to catch them and they're terrible creatures! Run!"

So the two Bad Chaps, being silly creatures, ran off in a leap over the milk bottle and turned in circles. "I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily breaking a dish."

NEW TRAFFIC
SIGNALS URGED

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 22.—An offer to provide a traffic-actuated signal for a year's trial free of charge was made yesterday to the city council by the Northern Electric Co. The proposal will be considered by the special traffic commission of the council.

The signals, which would cost between $25,000 and $26,000 each, provide a standard at each corner of an intersection and would be controlled by the flow of traffic. Detector pads on the road, when depressed by a vehicle, would set the signal for a change while pedestrians crossing the street would control the signal by a push-button at the curb.

Dashing Young Flier Is the King's Pilot

Will Discuss Work On Docks

Flight-Lieutenant E. H. Fielden, thirty-three years of age, is Captain of the King's Flight and is unmarried.

London, Sept. 22.—Captain of the King's flight! Flight-lieutenant Edward Hedley Fielden, upon whose muscular shoulders rests the enormous responsibility of flying King Edward VIII safely, bears his dashing title casually—as casually as he refers to his lord.

"My boss," he calls the King. This thirty-three-year-old pilot who holds the distinction of being the first to pilot a British monarch, is the envy of his fellows and a pleasing sight for feminine eyes. Fielden is strong, silent, self-effacing and good-looking in the spruce, close-cropped manner reminiscent of the British army breed.

He is the sole pilot, and his name was given him this summer in line with the King's emphasis on all things British.

Fielden has been schooled in the non-risk air school. Known to his intimates as "Mouse," he lives quietly at the Hendon Aerodrome officers' mess—at the constant back-and-ease of his royal master.

The King's plane has a luxurious seating accommodation of five seats, radio, luggage department, refreshment canteen, writing bureau, and cruise at 135 miles per hour with an 800-mile range. It is painted in the bright colors—dark red and blue.

The captain of the King's flight now has carried out more than 2,000 hours of flying, and the King himself, no novice, has piloted dozens of machines and has the insignia of an accredited Royal Air Force pilot already earned during world war days.

Fielden did the usual things in school—played good football, cut fancy capers on the ballroom floor, and didn't go at all for Latin. When he was graduated from Malvern he did not enter the navy. Instead, a Dutch friend of the family suggested he might find a job in Java.

BROKE THE NEWS

So Fielden spent eighteen months cooling his heels at home or dallying with engines. Meanwhile, he expressed a desire to join the air force. His father put his foot down, but one day "Mouse" broke the news. He had "passed" for the Air Force. All he needed was a third character reference. The father, quietly philosophical, signed.

From 1924 until 1929 he trained in his short-term school and then went straight to Capt. F. E. Guest as a private pilot. Later he applied for the job of teaching Edward, then Prince of Wales, more aviation tricks. Fielden was made chief pilot and extra equerry to the Prince in 1933, and has also instructed the Duke of Kent and Duke of Gloucester. Last month Edward instituted the new office and put three assistants and a secretary under Fielden's orders.

Extremely modest, he prefers to be called "Master." He says it is part of his job to keep in health. So he drinks little alcohol, rations his cigarettes and has no special food fads. Just eat what is put before him. In 1929 he was awarded the Air Force Cross for distinguished peace-time flying. He has never won a race, but in 1932 he was second in the King's Cup air race when he piloted the Prince of Wales' "Comet Swift."

That same year he set a new cross-England record when he flew the Prince's machine from Liverpool to Skegness, a distance of 136 miles, in forty-nine minutes, or 2.7 miles per minute. This curly-haired, unmarried pilot has only one admitted fear—publicity, and a fear that he may one day be described as "handsome, laughing-eyed," etc.

Sugar Damaged In Fire Aboard Ship

San Francisco, Sept. 22.—Fire in a cargo hold of the American-Hawaiian freighter Kentuckian caused damage to sacked sugar estimated by firemen at $5,000 here yesterday.
